Consultant may be hired in superintendent search

By Neil Fater

Intent on avoiding another abbreviated superintendency, the School Committee may pay an outside consultant to help it with the hiring process.

The committee Tuesday night interviewed Lyle J. Kirtman, president of Future Management Systems; and Richard Barnes, a consultant with Future who also works as assistant superintendent of personnel for the Lexington public schools.

"I have to say I was genuinely impressed with the delivery," Lloyd Willey, committee member, said after the two men left.

Hiring a management consultant will cost approximately $8,000-$9,000 including expenses for travel and phone bills.

"Another way to look at it is, [Should we] get an ad in The New York Times and another ad in the Globe, or pay him?" said Mary Lyman, School Committee member.

Committee members will spend the next few days researching Future's references.

Ultimately, the decision to hire Future will be based on whether the committee believes the consultants can bring in more candidates of a higher quality than the committee can by itself.

Special Town Meeting is Monday School budget and train whistles highlight nine-article warrant

By Don Staruk

Voters at Special Town Meeting this Monday night, Dec. 5, will be asked to transfer $650,000 in appropriations from the town side of the budget to the schools, and to re-appropriate another $60,000 for emergency and other expenses.

Other items on the nine-article warrant include asking the state Legislature to make a law banning use of train whistles in Andover, a proposal to purchase a piece of conservation land for $30,000, and creation of a new program that would allow senior citizens to do community-service work in exchange for a break on property-tax bills.

Special Town Meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the Collins Center on Shawsheen Road, adjacent to Andover High School. Town officials expect to get through the warrant in one night.

Babysitting for children 5-12, or 4 years old with an older sibling, will be provided by the Department of Community Services from 6:15 to 10 p.m. at a cost of $5 per child. The deadline to register for babysitting is tomorrow.

Marshalls is a community player

By Neil Fater

A foggy night slowed the normally steady flow of cars to a trickle Monday, but people still came to see the Brickstone Square Christmas Tree. Ray Reid and his fellow security guards watched "a caravan of Caravans," a stream of station wagons and a small number of other family vehicles come and go in the mist.

"My sister lives nearby and she brings her whole family every year," said Mr. Reid.

She is not alone. Before Dec. 25 arrives, Mr. Reid will watch thousands of families come to see the tree and enjoy related activities, such as the Marshalls-spawned Santa's Village with petting zoo and carousel.

Like many businesses today, Marshalls is involved in a trend that links businesses back to the communities in which they set up shop. Ideally, these informal business-community partnerships benefit both sides.

While residents benefit from the holiday activities, Marshalls executives hope some of that Christmas feeling will guide holiday shoppers back into their stores.

"I don't think there's any way to measure the impact on the business," said Hannah Hosom, national spokeswoman for Marshalls. "But I think especially, even in the past five years, there's a greater expectation by the consumer that a company is going to

A giant crane takes a large bite out of the roof of Phillips Academy's Draper Hall Tuesday. The building, located on School Street on the former Abbot Academy campus, will be refurbished after part of it is demolished. The new building will have 46,000 square feet.

Phillips Academy begins demolition of part of Draper Hall

Phillips Academy has begun demolition of a portion of Draper Hall, built in 1890 as part of the Abbot Academy campus. This week, a crane was taking large bites out of the roof of the building, taking down part of the structure bite by bite.

Additions to the back of Draper Hall were constructed in 1941, and PA is now demolishing the additions as well as a portion of the original building, which builders determined to be unsalvageable.

The academy will remodel the rest of the original structure. The refurbished building will be 46,000 square feet, approximately half the square footage of the current structure.

Contractors had to take the building down bite by bite instead of knocking it to the ground with a ball and chain because utilities such as electricity, water and heat run through the basement of Draper Hall and link to other buildings on the campus. The dormitories near Draper Hall are not occupied this year, so no students live close to the demolition site. An Andover firefighter is required to stand by during demolition because the fire alarm is disconnected during demolition.

The contractor is Richard White Sons, Inc. of Auburndale.

The remodeled building will house 12 faculty residences and, as currently planned, several offices, including those of the Institute for the Recruitment of Teachers, the Andover Bread Loaf Writing Workshop, Information Technology & Telecommunications, and the managerial offices for the Office of Physical Plant. Occupancy is tentatively scheduled for January 1996.

The academy has held a series of meetings throughout the year to apprise Andover residents who live near the demolition site of the work schedule. The demolition work is expected to be completed by the middle of this month.

Senior Center is open during December

By Neil Fater

A little misinformation can go a long way.

Apparently because the Andover Senior Center will not offer some of its popular classes in December, some people have been saying that the center will be closed for the entire month, according to Dorothy Bresnahan, Council on Aging chairwoman.

As a result, concerned residents have been calling the Senior Center for the past two weeks, worried that it is going to shut its doors for December.

"The main point I want to get across is the center will be open," said Ms. Bresnahan. "They think for some reason the center is going to be closed, which it is not. (The rumor) has upset a lot of people who didn't need to be upset."

Although classes in line dancing, exercising and wood working ended in November, the center will continue to offer all of its other services this month.

Formal line-dancing and exercising classes will begin again in January, and wood working will begin in April when the instructor returns from Florida.

Ms. Bresnahan said that those who want to continue line dancing or exercising without an instructor, should call Sharon Souza, Senior Center coordinator, to set up a schedule. Also, related tapes are available for use.

League plans potluck supper for planning

The League of Women Voters of Andover/North Andover will hold a potluck supper Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 6 p.m. at Susan Jenkins' house, 15 West Parish Drive. The purpose of the meeting is to give input to the state League program for the next two years and review current League positions. The meeting is open to the public. Call Ms. Jenkins at 475-4111 for further information.

This year, the individual Massachusetts Leagues are studying the issue of abused women and domestic violence in order to develop a position and take action.

Locally, this year the League is studying services for youth in Andover, supporting class meetings in the schools, encouraging the building of foot and bicycle paths and helping develop a greater sense of community through the Know Your Town program. Last year, the Leagues across the country studied the national health care issue and came to a consensus position. The Andover/North Andover League is considering how to take action on this issue in the next two years.

Teachers salaries, other items to benefit from shortfall

Voters to act on $600,460 for schools at Monday's Special Town Meeting

By Neil Fater

Although officials are expecting Monday's Special Town Meeting to plunk an additional $600,460 into this year's school budget, the School Committee has not yet decided exactly how that money will be spent.

However, one near-certainty is that some of this money will fund salary increases for teachers and other educators.

In fact, the $600,460 that the state's Education Reform Act mandates the town must transfer to the schools will help the school department dodge a budgetary bullet.

Although the School Committee is currently negotiating '94-'95 labor contracts, the schools budget contains no money for salary increases. Mark McQuillan, former superintendent of schools, called this hole in the budget "its most glaring deficiency," and stated that it could "only be remedied by further cuts in personnel, equipment and supplies, and by a vigorous exploration of other sources of revenue." The mandated funds will make such drastic measures unnecessary.

Not all of the money will be spent on salary increases, according to committee members.

"I think we all had ideas because there are things we had to table," said Mary Lyman, School Committee member. "Anything that we had put off to next year, that is a one-time expense, we would look at now for this year."

The committee will particularly focus on items that were cut from Dr. McQuillan's requested budget to bring the schools budget in line with the recommendation of Buzz Stapeczynski, town manager.

Approximately $950,000 was cut from the superintendent's recommended budget, including money for salary increases.

Cut items that the School Committee will consider putting back into the budget include:

- The position of a system-wide technology coordinator;
- $100,000 in textbooks and an equal amount for instructional equipment;
- Classroom and part-time math, physical education and health teachers;
- A part-time secretary; and
- Funding for professional development.

South School ground-breaking set for Monday

Two new School Building Committee members named

By Neil Fater

The School Building Committee is expected to announce tonight, Thursday, that the South School construction project will begin Monday at 9:30 a.m.

Although details are sketchy, school officials have received a notice from Sharman Lappin, the project manager, that a South School ground-breaking ceremony will take place at that time.

Ms. Lappin said Wednesday afternoon that the decision was made quickly because "with these things you just want to award the contract and start real fast. I think people have been chomping at the bit."

The building committee had a brief meeting Monday morning during which it discussed the possibility of breaking ground on Dec. 5, and members will work out the details tonight.

Two new members

In addition, when the building committee does break ground, it will need two more chrome-plated shovels.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, has appointed two new faces - those of Susan Jenkins and Gilbert Martin - to the committee just in time for construction to begin.

Ms. Jenkins, of 15 West Parish Drive, is a former School Committee member and current president of the Andover/North Andover League of Women Voters.

Mr. Martin, of 24 Rock O'Dundee Road, is a facilities project manager at Gillette in South Boston.

Mr. Martin said he asked neighbor and building committee member Allan Clarke about joining the building committee because an earlier committee he was on was not seeing enough action.

"I think about two years ago I had joined the School Building Oversight Committee," said Mr. Martin. "We went gang busters for about a year and then really (superintendent Mark McQuil- came to a screeching halt when

Alderbrook Road paving spurs lawsuit against the town

By Don Staruk

A portion of the private section of Alderbrook Road that was the subject of a Town Meeting article last April was paved last month by a resident, and another resident is now suing to stop the town from using the roadway.

Robert Heitz Jr., of 105 Sunset Rock Road, whose property has frontage on the private portion of Alderbrook Road and who owns to the middle of that portion of road, does not want the dirt road paved.

His neighbor, Paul Rauseo, of 102 Sunset Rock Road, whose property also has frontage on the private section of Alderbrook Road and who owns the other half of that section of road, wants it paved.

The town put water lines in the road last year, after which it planned to pave the road, but couldn't without Mr. Heitz's permission. So the town went to Town Meeting last April and asked residents to take the land by eminent domain and accept the road as a public way and pave it. But the petition was denied by voters.

Last week, Mr. Rauseo paid a private contractor to pave 250 feet of the road in front of his property, but only to the middle of the right of way, the portion that he was told by the town he owns.

Also last week, Mr. Heitz filed a suit [Continued on page 7]

Town being sued over a private road

against the town in Essex County Superior Court in Lawrence asking for an injunction preventing the town, including school buses, from using the road. Mr. Heitz is also asking that the road be returned to its original condition - dirt - and for damages in an amount to be determined by the court, court costs, interest and attorneys' fees.

Mr. Heitz requested a preliminary injunction against the town that would have prevented use of the road, but that request was denied by the court yesterday morning, Wednesday.

Tom Urbelis, town counsel, said Monday night that his first reaction to the complaint was to go to Bob McQuade, Public Works director, and ask if the town had anything to do with the road being paved. It didn't, Mr. Urbelis said.

Mr. Rauseo said Tuesday that he is the one who arranged the paving.

"We paved our side," Mr. Rauseo said.

The right of way for the private road is 65 feet wide, and residents on each side own to the middle of the right of way, he said. Since a town road only needs to be 28 feet wide, he asked the town to pave a full 28-foot-wide road all on his side of the right of way. The town came out and staked out the boundary, but refused to get involved, according to Mr. Rauseo, because that would have required going back to town meeting.

So last week he paved a 200- to 250-foot-long and 12-foot-wide strip, from where the paving had ended on Alderbrook Road along the edge of his property to his property line.

"The road was deteriorating quite badly," Mr. Rauseo said.

With winter coming, the deterioration would only get worse, he said.

And back on Oct. 14, a motorist damaged his car's oil pan when it bottomed out going from the paved section of roadway to the unpaved section, Mr. Rauseo said. The town subsequently sent him a letter advising him that it was his responsibility to maintain the road in a safe condition. He and his wife, Victoria Rauseo, decided the best way to do that was to pave it, Mr. Rauseo said.

Mr. Rauseo said Mr. Heitz has not discussed the matter with him.

"No. We don't talk, I don't think," Mr. Rauseo said.

Mr. Heitz said last spring that Mr. Rauseo and his wife had influence with the town and that he didn't expect Mr. Rauseo to stop pursuing the paving issue until he got his way. It appears now that he was at least half right. Mr. Heitz could not be reached this week to comment on the road paving or the lawsuit.

Mr. Rauseo said cars are not going any faster on the paved road than they did before, and he said motorists have stopped to thank him for paving the road. He said the paving cost him between $3,000 and $5,000.

"I haven't got the bill yet to be honest with you," Mr. Rauseo said.

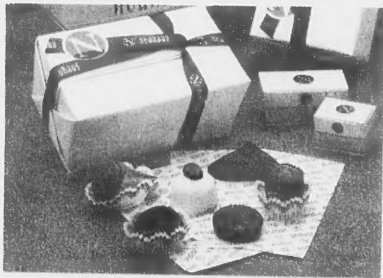

He plans to install a sign advising residents that it is a private way, Mr. Rauseo said.

"I think I'm being a good citizen. It's too bad he doesn't feel the same way about it," Mr. Rauseo said of Mr. Heitz.

New business: Getting the best insurance coverage

By Joan Brown

The smell of fresh paint mingles with the scent of pine shavings as the finishing touches are added to the new offices on the historic Barnard Building's lower level. Renovation is now nearly complete, but new business owner Michael R. Jankowski has been operating since Nov. 7 amidst the dust and debris, eager to establish himself in the Andover business community.

The Michael R. Jankowski Insurance Agency is a full-service operation offering all lines of insurance, including life, accident and health, automotive, home and business. The agency prides itself on its ability to give professional attention to each client's individual needs.

Building his business on honesty, integrity and a heavy duty work ethic, Mr. Jankowski is more than willing to go the extra mile to produce an insurance package that will meet the customer's individual needs.

"It's important to spend the time to get the right coverage," says Mr. Jankowski.

He will customize the insurance packet and follow through with the details, such as offering a free registry service for automobile insurance clients.

Mr. Jankowski grew up in Methuen, and may be remembered as a one-time nemesis of the Andover High School hockey team as he captained the rival Central Catholic team in the early 1980s. After graduation from Northeastern University, he played professional hockey for several years in Europe before returning to the United States to work for a major insurance company.

Becoming an independent broker now gives him the freedom to get the best fit of coverage and cost for each client.

"I'm more interested in meeting the individual client's needs," says Mr. Jankowski. "I don't have to attain any corporate goals, and can work solely to get the best possible coverage for the right price."

The Michael R. Jankowski Insurance Agency is located in the Barnard Building, Suite L-13, 10 Main St.

Office hours are Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon. Telephone number is 474-8600.

Andover Bank contributes to Habitat for Humanity

Andover Bank recently selected Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity Inc. as the recipient of a special cash award from the Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston (FHLB), and the bank matched the donation.

The FHLB recently recognized Andover Bank for its active participation in the FHLB programs designed to support affordable housing and community revitalization. In accordance with this recognition, the bank was asked to select a charitable housing organization to which the FHLB would make a $1,500 cash contribution on behalf of Andover Bank. Andover Bank chose to match the contribution and award a total of $3,000 to Greater Lawrence Habitat.

Last December Andover Bank donated property located at 38 Hancock St., Lawrence, to Habitat. Four duplexes, housing eight low- and moderate-income families, will be built on the site. Construction on two of the duplexes is near completion.

Michael Ecker, senior vice president of Andover Bank, organized an employee work day. Sixteen bank employees and family members were joined by a representative from the Federal Home Loan Bank and worked at the Hancock Street construction site. Employee volunteers included Gerald

"Participation in the Habitat For Humanity project has allowed Andover Bank to get more personally involved. Working side by side with the homeowners and other volunteers let us see firsthand how our cash contribution and manpower can make a difference," said Gerald T. Mulligan, Andover Bank president and CEO.

Creating new opportunities for low- and moderate-income housing is not new to Andover Bank, which has received formal commendations for participation in the community investment program and New England Housing Fund of Federal Home Loan Bank, provided construction financing and subsidy pass through for The Berkley Place apartment complex owned by Lawrence Planning and Neighborhood Development Corporation, and participated in a joint effort with Lawrence Community Development Department to launch a special financing program that offers affordable housing to increase homeownership in Lawrence.

Andover woman selling BrightIdeas for children

By Joan Brown

Deb Olander worked with adults when she was a management consultant at a large computer manufacturer. She worked with teen-agers when she taught math at a local high school. But in her latest career adventure, her business partners are a 5-year-old boy named Ryan and a 2-year-old girl named Taryn. They test products and provide important market research data on children's educational software. Ms. Olander has joined BrightIdeas, a Concord-based company that sells what the firm calls quality educational software for children ages 2-12.

BrightIdeas, founded two years ago, now employs more than 80 independent software consultants in about 20 states. Addie Swartz, a former Lotus employee who founded the firm, was responding to the difficulty parents have in choosing quality educational software for their home computers. She applies the "Tupperware approach" of direct marketing to educational software by hiring and training consultants who take their com-

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

A LOSING PROPOSITION

Bone-density scans not only assess an older person's risk for osteoporosis (a bone-thinning disease), but they give an indication of the health of the teeth. Postmenopausal women, in particular, are at risk for osteoporosis. According to a recent study, those who had low bone density in their hips, spine, and wrists (a key marker of osteoporosis) also had begun to lose their natural teeth. The less bone density the women had, the more teeth they lost. This is not surprising in light of the fact that the bones in the jaws help root teeth firmly in place. Postmenopausal women should not only be concerned that osteoporosis makes them more vulnerable to bone fractures, but tooth loss as well.

We believe strongly that one of the most important services we render our patients, young, old, & in between, is a plan for preventive care. ## Understanding Chiropractic by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

ONE IN A MILLION

The media has recently painted an alarming picture of a chiropractic patient's increased risk for stroke following an adjustment. The fact is, however, that chiropractic treatment remains among the most conservative of therapies and does not contribute to an increased risk for stroke. Numerous studies put the incidence of stroke - like episodes following cervical adjustments on the order of one in a million. Those who are predisposed to stroke by virtue of such factors as hypertension, atherosclerosis, etc. expose themselves to the risk of stroke by simply stretching their heads backward for a beauty salon shampoo. By properly screening their patients by taking thorough medical histories, chiropractors minimize the risk of stroke to nearly non-existent.

We are committed to teaching you how to prevent injuries and stress on the body. Our methods are non-invasive and we use no drugs or surgery. Please call with your questions at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042. Our care is recommended for the entire family and we accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Chiropractic's safety record compares favorably with those of all other health professionals.

Window washer faces more charges in house-break case

By Don Staruk

A Haverhill man who allegedly stole from houses where he was being paid to wash windows will face five additional charges in Andover and at least five more charges in North Andover as a result of a police investigation.

John Baston, 22, of Haverhill, has admitted to the thefts, according to police, and has cooperated in the investigation.

He is scheduled to be arraigned in Lawrence District Court Thursday, Dec. 22.

Police last week said Mr. Baston had been charged with thefts from Shawnee Circle and on Olympia Way, and from other homes in North Andover.

After checking other homes in Andover where Mr. Baston worked, four more charges of larceny of property valued at more than $250, and one charge of larceny under $250, were added to the charges against Mr. Baston, according to Sgt. Detective Kevin Winters. At least five more charges from North Andover were also added.

The additional Andover charges are related to thefts reported on Korinthian Way, Kathleen Drive, Holt Road and Brentwood Circle. A theft on Pride Circle will not be prosecuted because it involved only costume jewelry and the owners have since moved to California.

"We have contacted everybody that we can that we have on that list," Detective Winters said this week.

Mr. Baston allegedly took small items from drawers or closets that would not be missed right away. Some items have been recovered, but many have been sold from the pawn shops to whom Mr. Baston allegedly sold them.

"There's one item that we're very interested in finding an owner for," Detective Winters said.

The item has the name "Bunce" and a date in the 1800s inscribed on it. Police hope the owner of the item will be able to describe it in detail so they can return it.

Among other items that were returned to owners was a 1987 Andover High School class ring. Mr. Baston allegedly took from one house two baseball cards, one of Wade Boggs and another of Jim Palmer.

Sanborn students deliver

Sanborn School celebrated its 16th annual Harvest Festival. This community-outreach program to Andover senior citizens provides a learning experience that extends beyond school walls.

Sanborn children, parents and staff donated foods, toiletries and hand-made cards, which they bundled in decorative holiday boxes. Fifth-grade students delivered the care packages to more than 125 elders, including many who were in their 90s. Many recipients baked goodies to share with their guests. Some talked about their work, travels and families. Others reminisced over photo albums and cards they had received from the children last year.

The second part of Harvest Festival

'94 took place at Sanborn, where invited senior citizens, past teachers and town officials were entertained by the student body. The assembly featured a Native American theme.

Music teacher Terri Scullin led the children in thematic songs based on the book Brother Eagle, Sister Sky. The children depicted the songs with creative movement.

Kindergarten teacher Candy Bachner displayed many Indian artifacts and explained their uses. She said, "The Native Americans cherished the land and all its natural resources. The earth belonged to all men to share and appreciate."

"The fifth-graders enjoyed visiting Andover seniors, swapping stories, songs and smiles," organizers said.

Lost in Yonkers closes this weekend at AHS

The Andover High School Drama Guild has been rehearsing since early September for its fall production, Neil Simon's award-winning Lost in Yonkers.

The action takes place in New York City in 1942 and 1943. Eddie, whose wife has recently died, has had to take a traveling job and leave his two sons, aged 13 and 16, with their old, extremely strict grandmother. In the same family are the boys' slightly-deranged-but-lovable Aunt Bella; Aunt Gert, who has a breathing infirmity; and Uncle Louie, who is apparently a gangster of some kind. The play revolves around the tense relationships that develop among these characters, and the difficulties resulting from these tensions. Mr. Simon has sprinkled the play with comic relief and has even included some autobiography.

Robin Detterman
T.J. Witham
Jenny Powers

The play is directed by Robert A. Lague, teacher of music and drama at Andover High School. W. Douglas Halsted, foreign language teacher at Doherty Middle School, is the assistant director. Students Danielle Vacarr coaches the regional accent and Matt Bevacqua is in charge of the stage crew. Scott Worthley is the set designer.

Mr. Lague and Mr. Halsted decided to double-cast the show because there were so many qualifying auditions. Student actors are T.J.

Witham and Todd Amundsen as Jay; Keith Putnam and Tony Beliveau as Arty; Robin Detterman and Jenny Powers as Aunt Bella; Mira Tamarkin and Julia Henderson as Grandma; Tim LeCam and Jeff Arleque as Eddie; Todd Buonopane and Rick Snyder as Uncle Louie; and Lindsey Strube and Sabrina Gum as Aunt Gert. [See Entertainment Calendar and photo, page 47.] Performances begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 2 and 3, in the Collins Center for the Performing Arts at Andover High School. (The play was also performed Nov. 18-19.) Tickets, $5 each, may be purchased at the door. Call 470-1700, Ext. 341.

Day Care at Night for Town Meeting

Day Care at Night will be available at the Special Town Meeting for parents of children ages 5-12. Parents may drop children off at the High School cafeteria after 6:15 p.m. Children age 4 may enroll with an older child in attendance. Children should wear comfortable clothing (pajamas, sweatsuits); they should bring a pillow, sleeping bag, snack, homework and a favorite game or toy.

Supervision will be provided by Andover High School Community Services student volunteers.

Pre-registration is required by noon tomorrow, Friday, at the Department of Community Services (only), in town offices on Bartlet Street.

The fee is $5 per child. All proceeds will benefit the Andover High School Community Services program.

West Elementary students discover science is everywhere

The Acton Science Discovery Museum brought science workshops to West Elementary last week.

Members of the museum staff visited each classroom in the third, fourth and fifth grades. They will return in March to visit the second-grade classes. Students asked questions and offered hypotheses during the workshops.

Third-graders learned about static electricity with a portable Van de Graaff generator, similar to the one at Boston's Museum of Science. They saw the generator light up a fluorescent bulb and cause a mini-lightning flash off the elbow of the presenter. Each student had a "hands-on experience" that made their hair stand on end. By the end of the program, students understood the difference between static electricity and current, and how negative and positive charges build up.

Fourth-graders compared the properties of white light and lasers using a flashlight and a portable helium neon laser. They saw white light separated into colors through hand-held Polaroid films. They observed that white light spreads out from its source while the laser stays concentrated, and they learned about some everyday uses of lasers, from surgery to CDs. Each child put on a laser show, using a hand-held crank to spin mirrors that reflected a red laser beam off a white screen.

Fifth-graders tried their hands at magnification. They started by using a glass of water to magnify newsprint, and then explored the classroom with a hand-held 30-power illuminating microscope. Finally, they looked through a high-power microscope at slides of cells and fibers. They learned that the power of magnification determines the level of detail they can see, and that there is a tiny world to be discovered in everyday objects.

The Discovery Museum workshops were funded by the West Elementary School PTO and organized by cultural events coordinators Chris Holzwarth and Leslie Malis.

Scout Troop 565 is into health and fitness

Junior Girl Scout Troop 565 began the year by completing one activity for this year's National Girl Scout theme of health and fitness.

Girl Scouts across the United States will work on activities to learn about healthy eating, alcohol and drug abuse, fitness and exercise, hair and skin care, and environmental health. The girls will participate in and complete 12 activities to earn the health-and-fitness badge during the next eight months.

Cindy Lobsein, a hairdresser in Andover for eight years, visited Troop 565's first meeting this fall and talked about hair and skin care. She demonstrated several hair styles on Caitlin Meehan and Kirsty McCarthy. Caitlin, a dancer, had her hair tied up in the back with a colorful scarf and Kirsty's hair was pulled back and the small ponytail was braided. Ms. Lobsein talked about the different types of shampoos and conditioners and how to use them, skin moisturizers and cleansing the face and skin and the importance of a clean face in preteen years. Ms. Lobsein closed the meeting by creating a different hairstyle on each of the 18 Girl Scouts.

The troop will experiment with healthy snacks and blender recipes they can prepare themselves as healthy, tasty alternatives to after-school snacks. Some recipes include: soft pretzels, bagel pizza (with low fat cheese), sliced apples dipped in cinnamon, fat-free vanilla milk shakes made with skim milk, fat-free frozen yogurt and vanilla (fruit can be added to make flavors); nachos on baked tortilla chips; and chunks of cheese, low fat ham rolls and pineapple chunks put on a toothpick to make snack-kabobs. Some of the other activities the Girl Scouts will be doing this year include an aerobic workout, hikes; stress management; how to deal with pressures at school and with friends; preventing substance abuse; posture effects of the sun; how to prevent sunburn and what skin means.

Powder Puff '94 unifies AHS seniors

By Sarah Weir, AHS senior

The 1994 Powder Puff football game was a roaring success. Despite the chilly weather, more than 300 spectators gathered to root at least 100 for Bread and Roses and the House. But this night was more than just a simple football game. The senior class of 1994, and its played the school's first once again. The game was made at Lovely. The team, the Warriors, ended the game with a 21-6 victory as the Crabby Critters romped over the Toughies 21-6.

Cheering on the girls was a squad of peppy male cheerleaders who looked fabulous in their skirts. The boisterous Tom Clark and his creative moves, along with quarterback Jamie Barron's incredible touchdowns made this a night to remember. Members of the class of 1994 left the game feeling like to the class of 1994, and the seniors.

Workshop is on 'Success and Esteem Coaching'

Margot Rutledge will lead a workshop on "Success and Esteem Coaching" Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 7:30 in the South School auditorium. The workshop is presented by Parent to Parent and South School PTO to teach how to help children foster increased self-esteem, maximize their potential, improve communication, project confidence and achieve goals. This high-energy, interactive workshop will feature parenting strategies and skill-specific exercises to help parents develop positive ways of supporting and coaching their children.

The former vice president and general manager of the Metropolitan Dale Carnegie program has worked with adults in the workplace and students throughout New England studying the elements of personal happiness and success. Ms. Rutledge explains, "I've always wondered why some people believe in themselves more than others. I noticed that although you could have equally talented people, some would excel and some wouldn't. What's the magic? What's the key that could turn someone from being unproductive and unhappy to being totally happy and productive in whatever they decide to do? I'm absolutely positive there are skills that can help you be successful - if only you know what they are, if someone teaches you, is a mentor to you. When I say successful, I mean able to progressively realize whatever it is you want."

Admission to the workshop is free, and has been funded by the Comprehensive Health Protection Grant written by Brenda O'Brien. For more information, call Susan Joyner at 475-3487.

Community groups submitting news to the Townsmen may send for the free brochure 'How to write a press release,' available from the paper. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Townsmen.

Workshop helps determine the age of local houses

Are you curious about who built your house and when? Do you know why it looks the way it does? The Andover Historical Society offers some answers with Barbara Thibault's workshop, "How to Date a House" on Wednesday, Dec. 7, at 6 p.m.

Some examples of house histories are those that received 1994 preservation awards from the Andover Historical Society and the Andover Historical Commission. First, 60-62 Essex St. and its circa-1820 neighbor survive from the historic Abbot Village. They were built as housing for workers at the earliest spinning mills along the Shawsheen River. From the first decade of the 19th century, the Abbot brothers, Paschal and Abel, and Abraham Marland operated their textile businesses.

The Nathan Abbot House, 61 Chestnut St., (circa 1890) is Queen Anne style, which is not common in Andover and is characterized by asymmetry, several different building materials, porches, cutaway bay windows and other ways to avoid a smooth-walled appearance. Application of many paint colors high light's the style's many details.

At 65 Park St., the Dinsmore-Muise House represents both the Italianate and Queen Anne styles. According to the Andover Advertiser April 11, 1884, "Frank A. Dinsmore is about to build a cottage house on Park Street. Contractor A.C. Richardson."

By 1901, Theodore Muise, a tailor, and family lived there, remaining for much of this century.

These Thoughts*

WHAT ABOUT THE CHILDREN?

The death of a grandparent often puts his or her children in a quandary as to whether or not to allow the grandchildren to attend the funeral. In all too many cases, the decision is made to spare the young grandchildren the emotional trauma that a funeral experience might generate. However, many might argue in favor of the grandchildren's attendance by making the point that failure to admit to grief with the reality of death may be the true cause of any ambivalence and sorrow that might surface. As a form of honoring the deceased, the purpose of a funeral is to help survivors recognize the fact of death and accept themselves as survivors. It is to respect the body better than the person and to honor the person.

For many, it is the death of a grandparent that is the first time they have had to deal with death. The funeral experience offers the young people a chance to see the reality of death and to learn about their grandparents' lives. It is a chance to see the person who has been a part of their lives and to say goodbye to them. It is a chance to see the person who has been a part of their lives and to say goodbye to them. It is a chance to see the person who has been a part of their lives and to say goodbye to them.

Firefighters parade!

Sam Schwartz, 15 months, of Andover, and Laura Bellino, 3 1/2, of North Andover, play around while waiting for the parade.

Photos by Lisa Adelsberger

The Andona Society and its clowns showed up in full force marching Sunday in the Andover Firefighters Holiday Parade. And somehow the adult clowns were able to pick out and help upset kids in the crowds who hadn't yet been able to catch candy thrown from floats.

Special Town Meeting is Monday, 7 p.m.

row, Friday, Dec. 2. Register at DCS in town offices, or call 470-3800.

Finance Committee reports, containing the complete warrant and brief explanations of the articles, were mailed Monday, Nov. 28, to all registered voters in Andover.

Selectmen voted to recommend approval of all nine warrant articles at their meeting Monday night, Nov. 28. The Finance Committee will vote on their recommendations on the articles tomorrow, Friday, Dec. 2, at 5 p.m. in town offices.

Here's a look at the warrant:

Article 1: School budget money

The primary reason for the Special Town Meeting is the schools budget transfer.

The transfer was made necessary by recent changes in the Education Reform Act regarding minimum requirements for school spending. The minimum spending requirements have to be met before the Department of Revenue will approve the town's tax rate. And the tax rate has to be set prior to mailing the tax bill for the third quarter, which will be mailed Jan. 1. Each month of delay in mailing the town's tax bills could cost the town $35,000 a month in investment income, according to Tony Torrisi, budget and finance director. And if in any year the town doesn't meet the minimum spending requirements, the amount of the shortfall would be deducted from state education aid the next year.

Article 1 asks voters to re-appropriate $709,986 within the budget.

The funding of the appropriations will be accomplished "without increasing the total planned to be raised from property taxes," according to the petition.

The re-appropriations include $50,000 to Municipal Maintenance for emergency replacement of an oil tank at West Middle School, $18,500 for bullet-proof vests for police, $41,026 for road work, and $600,460 for the schools spending requirements. (The $50,000 for the oil tank removal will also count toward the minimum school spending requirements.)

The reasons for the shortfall in what was budgeted for school spending last April are varied, according to the Finance Committee. They include that:

- The town's projected revenues are higher than anticipated at the time of the annual Town Meeting in April. Because the spending requirements are based on a community's ability to raise revenues, the increase must be reflected in school spending;

- Certain expenses, especially insurance, are lower than expected, and the savings must be passed on to the school budget in the form of an additional appropriation;

- Unexpected changes in the rules and regulations defining what can and cannot be counted as school spending disqualified some expenses, particularly maintenance items, that were formerly allowed. The money will still be spent, it just can't be counted toward the mandated spending requirements.

The $50,000 for the oil tank removal is a good example of the problem with new requirements for school spending. The state will only count projects that cost less than $25,000. In order to have the $50,000 qualify for the minimum spending, the oil tank removal will have to be billed as one project, and installation of the new tank will have to be billed as another project. And each project will have to cost less than $25,000.

"The Finance Committee presents this information with a sense of dismay and frustration," the FinCom said in its summary of the warrant article; dismay with regulations that seem to be "the antithesis of sensible budgeting and prudent financial management; and frustration with a process by which the state does not share its regulations with local communities until long after budget decisions must be made."

"They made up new rules," said Joanne Marden, FinCom member. "The 25,000 encourages bad budgeting and playing games with numbers. It's ridiculous."

Funding

An estimated $385,000 will be transferred from funds appropriated by the 1994 Town Meeting where costs are now expected to be lower than budgeted. These savings include $300,000 budgeted for insurance and $85,000 for debt service. The insurance was rebid, and the debt service is what borrowing for the school building project would have cost the town this year if voters hadn't approved the project as a debt exclusion item at April Town Meeting.

The balance will come from other unexpected surpluses available in the budget. State-aid revenue is $78,000 higher than officials estimated, and state assessments are $61,000 lower. And the deficit in the snow removal account from last year, estimated in April at $875,000, actually came in at about $673,000, roughly $202,000 less than anticipated, said Mr. Torrisi.

Mr. Torrisi said these are the only excesses in the budget that are known at this time, but that they are enough to cover the re-appropriations being requested.

Tank, vests and road work

The oil tank at West Middle School has already been removed and a new tank will probably be installed within four weeks. If there was not a Special Town Meeting, this item would have been paid for from the emergency reserve account, according to Ms. Marden. But since there is a town meeting now, that is really a more appropriate place to present the expense to voters, Ms. Marden said.

The bullet-proof vests will be bought with town money, if approved, but the entire $18,500 will be reimbursed by the state.

The emergency road work was already completed last summer when a culvert collapsed, closing Canterbury Road. The funds were taken from money budgeted for other road work. Re-appropriation of this money will free up the funds originally budgeted for that other work.

Article 2: Holt Hill towers

Article 2 would authorize town officials to enter an agreement with the state regarding use of Holt Hill for the purpose of telecommunications.

Holt Hill is in the Ward Reservation off the end of Prospect Street, on the North Andover town line. The town has a water storage tank there, and the state police have a building and radio tower there, which they share with the town's police department. The town owns the land, and the state police own the building and tower.

This partnership with the state police has been in effect for 20 years with no formal written lease. The purpose of Article 2 is to have an agreement in writing between the town and the state.

Article 3: Cellular One

Article 3 asks residents to allow town officials to enter into an agreement with Cellular One, "or any other entity in the telecommunications field," for the use of the property on Holt Hill for purposes of telecommunications.

The purpose is to allow the town to get involved with a deal between Cellular One, or any other private cellular phone service company, and the state police in which Cellular One and the state police would replace the building, tower and generator on the site with state-of-the-art equipment, all at no cost to the town.

The facility already houses the town's police, fire and emergency management radio systems, as well as radios for the state, North Andover and regional police, and for the Internal Revenue Service.

The building that is there now is in tough shape, according to Andover Police Lt. Phillip Froburg and Don Nagle, director of communications for the state police, who made a presentation on the proposal to selectmen in September.

A new building would be built to the left, when standing at the water tower, of the existing building. A new 160-foot radio tower, the same height as the existing tower, would be also installed. The old building and tower would be removed.

The new building would have roughly the same footprint as the existing building, but would be two stories high instead of one. The existing building is 15 feet by 30 feet. The new building would be 20 feet by 30 feet.

Although the article does not approve any specific deal, the proposal currently under negotiation with Cellular One would involve a 15- or 20-year lease or license for their use of the facility. Mr. Nagle said the proposal is part of a state-wide effort to build partnerships with the private sector to expand and upgrade the state police communications system.

Article 4: Sewage agreements

Article 4 asks voters to allow the town to enter agreements with Lowell and Tewksbury to provide sewerage disposal services to users of those services who live in Andover.

The specific purpose of this petition at this time is to allow two companies in Andover, Digital Equipment Co. and Brockway-Smith Co., both on Dascomb Road near the Tewksbury line, to continue discharging sewerage into the Tewksbury disposal system, which is serviced by the Lowell sewage disposal system.

The Environmental Protection Agency is requiring the agreement so that Andover would give Lowell the right to inspect and sample sewage discharge and enforce its sewage regulations against industrial users that discharge into Lowell's system.

Article 5: Train whistles

Article 5 is a private article put forth by Leo Doherty, 11 Buxton Court, and asks residents to petition the Legislature to make a law banning the sounding of train whistles at railroad crossings in Andover.

Mr. Doherty asked selectmen in October to call a Special Town Meeting just for this article. He had begun soliciting the 200 signatures necessary for a citizen to call a Special Town Meeting, but the school budget problem that required a Special Town Meeting made that unnecessary.

For more than two years residents who live along the railroad tracks have been complaining to town officials about train whistles being blown loud and more frequently than was past practice. The town has met with the state Department of Public Utilities, but to relatively no avail.

Then in September, the Legislature signed a new law banning whistles in the town of Acton, where residents had complained of similar problems for years. Mr. Doherty wants the town to ask the Legislature and the governor to approve similar legislation for Andover, and he doesn't want to wait until annual Town Meeting in April.

"We've been advised that the governor and Legislature might be warm to this now, and might not be six months from now," he said in October.

Federal officials may seek to repeal the Acton law, he said, because they believe it is a bad precedent, and that could cool interest in a new law being proposed.

The petition for the law must originate with a town meeting request, then be filed in the Legislature by one of the town's legislative representatives.

Article 6: Seniors tax voucher

Article 6 asks residents to appropriate a "certain sum of money" to create a program that would provide senior citizens and disabled homeowners with a real estate tax payment voucher program. The petition proposes that $15,000 be set aside for this program for the first year.

This program would permit homeowners who are 60 years old and older, or who are disabled, to earn vouchers that could be used toward paying their property tax bills. The vouchers would be involved in the community. It can't just close its doors at five o'clock and say, 'Thank you very much and we'll see you tomorrow.'

Marshalls is a community player

"I think Marshalls feels a real commitment back to the families that shop in our stores," said Ms. Hosom.

Habitat for Humanity

While Marshalls' activities around the 8.5 ton Brickstone tree are fairly well known, Marshalls' contributions to the Greater Lawrence Habitat for Humanity have gone relatively unnoticed. Habitat is the organization Jimmy Carter made famous by volunteering for it. Habitat builds houses with donated labor and materials and sells them pretty much at cost with no-interest mortgages to those who otherwise could not afford decent housing.

In addition to financial donations from Marshalls itself, during recent weekends, individual Marshalls employees have spent time helping to build a structure on Hancock Street in Lawrence.

Marshalls established a committee a few years ago to consider employee or citizen suggestions for charities in communities with Marshalls stores that Marshalls should help. The local Habitat was one of the organizations the committee selected.

"The reason the committee was started was so we could pool our resources and funnel our responsibilities as a corporate citizen in the states we work in," said Diana Lane, regional human resources director.

Ms. Lane and Steve Heiligman, the New England regional training manager, are two Marshalls employees who have been enjoying what they classified as a learning experience. Mr. Heiligman travels from Connecticut on Saturday to hammer and saw the afternoon away at the Habitat site in Lawrence.

"One of the porch roofs, Steve and I did, and it's still standing," said Ms. Lane. "I never knew why there were so many different nail sizes and now I do."

Although some of the more complicated jobs such as electrical and plumbing work are sometimes contracted out, Marshalls associates, Habitat volunteers, and the family who will live in the house have all been learning about home building.

"It's kind of sink or swim. It's very much a volunteer effort," said Bonnie Matterand, who is involved with Marshalls store prototype development. "I spent a whole day undoing someone else's efforts, but you learn from that."

"I'd been told that two years ago (the land they are building on) was a dump. People used to throw garbage there and everything," Mr. Heiligman said of the abandoned property Habitat is using.

Soon a family home will occupy the space.

Youth Council preview

Since Marshalls donates to communities in which it is involved, and the Marshalls national headquarters is located here, Andover has particularly benefited from the donations to communities.

Marshalls helped to elevate the Feaster Five Road Race. Marshalls also donated $10,000 to the Andover Youth Council to help with its youth-center project.

Of course not all of this is merely out of the goodness of the corporate big wigs' hearts; Marshalls gives primarily to family-related charities for a particular reason.

According to Ms. Hosom, research shows that the typical Marshalls customer is a woman who has both children and significant ties to her community.

"Definitely when we picked the Youth Council we looked at all the organizations in Andover," said Ms. Hosom. The decision "did figure back into what our average customer, our target customer is concerned with."

Marshalls workers are also smart enough to link their giving to the number of people who come into the store.

For instance, Marshalls gave one percent of the sales from its stores nationwide to the Family Violence Prevention Fund, to be used for a domestic violence awareness campaign and for innovative prevention programs. In total, Marshalls and other companies raised $115,000. A similar format was used for the Youth Council opening the more people who attended, the more Marshalls donated.

"In a case like the (Youth Council-related) preview party, the response was actually greater than we had anticipated. We were really pleased not only to help the Andover Youth Services but also it meant all those people came into our store," said Ms. Hosom.

This is a case of business and community helping each other.

Despite its other contributions, however, Andoverites tend to notice and attend the holiday activities under the Brickstone tree more than anything else. Thousands of people attended the lighting of the 94-foot-tall Brickstone tree.

"Jerry Rossi (Marshalls' president) loves this time of year. He got really into the tree. He thinks it's the greatest thing in the world. He can see it from his office," said Ms. Hosom. "Every year we sit down and say what can we add this year and keep it free to the public."

Mr. Rossi said his dream is to some day add a working railroad around the Brickstone property.

"When we get into meetings on the tree, he's totally into it. He's a little kid again or something," said Ms. Hosom.

In the photo at right, volunteers work on the latest Habitat for Humanity site in Lawrence. Those who qualify to buy a house built by Habitat have to put in their own volunteer hours. Marshalls is donating $45,000 to Habitat, which will foot the bill for one house.

Acting against intolerance

Students and teachers from Pike School are participating in an event in Boston on Tuesday, Dec. 13, called "A World of Difference."

Promoters of the event, which include professional sports teams and Blue Cross and Blue Shield, as well as the Anti-Defamation League, say the event is the first of its kind in the nation. They hope it will help curtail school prejudice and violence in Massachusetts by providing thousands of middle- and high-school students with the awareness and skills they need.

Recently, Andover has been coping with swastikas painted on walls and roads - again. People with whom we talk about the swastikas are surprised that such disregard for others is still a problem in Andover. We are not surprised. Sad, yes, surprised, no.

The only way we know to deal with bigotry is to address it every time it comes up.

Pike students and faculty will be asked with others at the event to take a pledge to make the school a "prejudice-free zone."

They will see video presentations on ending prejudice and live performances by local and national musicians. Sports celebrities of Boston's four professional sports teams will make presentations.

Call Jeffrey Pina at Blue Cross, 617-832-4821, if you want to know more about the event.

We encourage the Pike students to return to Andover and share with their peers and other community members what they have learned. This newspaper would welcome a letter from the students about the event.

All of us - students as well as adults - have a part to play in curtailing prejudice and bigotry. Working with young students helps. In the meantime, all of us need to pay close attention to our own behavior, to see if there is any chance that we may contribute in any way to the ugly behavior that is called intolerant and bigoted.

Sophie died before the first snow

By Perry Colmore

When I grow too old to make decisions for myself, or when I become too sick to take care of myself, I hope somehow my daughter, Blayney, is involved in my care and in making decisions about me.

Sophie died Sunday, Nov. 20. She was our 7-year-old Golden retriever who had cancer for more than a year.

She really should have died half a year ago, but Blayney blew too much love into Sophie for the dog to give in. Blayney was her cheerleader, her mother, her doctor, her confidante. She tried the traditional medical paths, and when even an oncology specialist at Tufts Veterinary School said the only thing left was to take her home and make her comfortable, Blayney tried health food and other healing balms.

Finally, Sophie's beloved vet, who had worked with her tumors, her medication and her comfort, told Blayney and her boyfriend that the time had come.

Blayney had hoped to wait until it snowed. Sophie loved to roll and play in the snow. It snowed three days after Sophie died.

I admire how much my daughter values life. For months she insisted Sophie was doing OK, that she was adjusting to the large tumor on her leg, that she now was a handicapped dog, no longer the lovely young dog we were used to. This was simply a new Sophie, but still a wonderful companion. Blayney didn't feel right making a death decision for the dog, and even on the day she made the decision to put her down, Blayney still was hoping Sophie might die by herself.

Afterall, Sophie had been Blayney's constant companion. Blayney took her to her university classes, where her professors had become accustomed to the large and failing dog lying at her mistress's feet during lectures. Toward the end, Blayney's professors understood that Sophie was not just a dog to Blayney, and they began to tell her to do whatever she needed and she could make up the work.

She also took Sophie to her part-time job at a historic mansion where Blayney painted rooms, pulled weeds in the sculpture gardens and worked at social functions. Several months ago Blayney would tie Sophie up in the outdoor courtyard where she could enjoy the sun and not wander away. But toward the end, Blayney didn't have to tie her; Sophie really wouldn't go anywhere.

Blayney and I decided that she and her boyfriend, who loved Sophie as much as we did, would be with Sophie when she got her shot; I would not go, we decided. Blayney thought it would be confusing for Sophie, who was always so glad to see me when I showed up. She had lived with me for the first years of her life; it was only during the last two years that she moved to Blayney's apartment, where she got more attention with kids coming and going.

But by Saturday, the day before Sophie died, I knew I needed to see Blayney, her boyfriend and Sophie. So I went and I am glad I did. Sophie was too tired to make that much of a fuss over me, although she was glad to see me. Her tumor was large. She was in pain. She groaned quite a lot.

Swastikas, a harmless prank?

Editor, Townsmen:

Andover is a sophisticated community. The advanced degrees on my street alone are sufficient to staff a small college.

Mr. Thomas, do you expect the informed reader to believe that you outlined your 12-step program of response to Mrs. Vacarr and that she misinterpreted you to say that "Swastikas on school property were a harmless prank"?

Your program of response smacks of a defensive move to cover up your initial disregard. Whatever your motivation, I congratulate you and I am looking forward to its implementation.

Thanks for not firing muskets in the parade

Editor, Townsmen:

Andover's 1994 Santa Parade was the best yet!

The bands, cars, fire trucks, marchers and Santa himself were super. The floats were awesome!

Best of all, the militia regiment didn't fire their muskets. My gun-shy children were delighted, and we all enjoyed watching the militia drills without the distraction of the oppressively loud musket blasts. Thanks!

Still, his bike was stolen

Editor, Townsmen:

This past summer my son's mountain bike was stolen from the front porch of our home. The bike had been a gift from his dad and as such held special meaning.

The bike had not been locked, so my indignation that someone would be brazen enough to come to our very doorstep to steal a bike was tempered with the parental admonition that "Well, Son, you should have been more careful and locked your bike to the porch."

Not one to let his anger embitter him, this resourceful 13-year-old saved every bit of his paper route earnings and bought himself a brand new bike this time a chrome one – and proudly rode it to school each day, complete with a heavy-duty bike lock.

Since we don't have a garage, my son carried his new bike up the stairs and into the dining room (ugh) every day. Having been once burned, he did this faithfully, without being reminded. He had learned to do the right thing.

Last Thursday my son called me at work to say that someone had stolen the key to his bike lock from his backpack while he was at school. He searched his bag, then walked home to get the spare keys, returned to school and unlocked his bike. Yesterday, at the end of the school day, he went outside to the bike rack where he found the unlocked bike lock lying on the ground and his treasured chrome bike stolen.

He had been responsible. He had done the right thing. He had taken partial responsibility for the theft of the first bike. Would someone please tell me what to say to him now?

Dislikes two new cable channels

The writer sent a copy of the following letter to the Townsmen:

Manager, TCI Cablevision:

This is in response to the rate increase in basic service for the addition of two channels, FX and tv!

FX features inane reruns of aged sitcoms that for most of us are unwatchable.

The other channel is a promotional package, a plug for the pay channels, such as Disney and Encore, during which the picture periodically and annoyingly diminishes to the size of a toy TV touting itself. This is tantamount to superimposing a commercial over the dramatic content – a tactic that wears on the viewer's nerves and makes this channel also unwatchable.

Most annoying is that you sought no customer input in adding channels, for which we are obliged to pay or do without basic service.

Had you added at least one quality channel, you probably would be hearing no complaints. Instead you give us drivel on one hand and a gimmick on the other. Instead of serving Andover residents, you seem to be treating us like idiots while picking our pockets.

Andrew Coburn

Says he was treated badly at the polls

The following letter was sent to Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski with a copy to the Townsmen:

Dear Sir:

I voted in the recent election at the Senior Citizens Center on Bartlett Street. I'd like to tell you about my experiences there.

When I entered the center, I was asked by a woman what street I lived on and told to go to a particular precinct which happened to be a short distance to the right down a hall. Since neither door to this precinct was marked (as far as I could see), I entered this voting area one door too far down the hall – the exit door as it turns out. Once inside, a hag scowled at me and told me to enter through the other door.

When I passed through the "correct" entrance door to the precinct and told people my street address, I was scowled at by another hag who told me I had come to the wrong precinct (it seems I had been misled by the unscowling younger woman whom I had seen upon entering).

I got to the right precinct, voted and was about to leave, when another hag pointed out annoyed, as though I should have known, that I needed to sign out after having voted. I protested that, once again, no signs were visible telling me what I should do: was a voter supposed to know these things automatically?

Hag number three said, with a superior smirk, that there was indeed a sign telling me to sign out and she pointed to it. It was located closer to the exit of the voting area than the place where they expected you to sign out. Therefore, anyone who had voted would have had to pass by Her Smirkiness before seeing it.

I dutifully signed out, and while doing so protested the unfairness of the entire business. So guess what? Both Her Smirkiness and the hag signing me out scowled at me.

I don't doubt no one else had a problem but can we sweeten up the hags and put out clear signs for every step of the voting procedure?

DOWN THE YEARS

100 years ago, November 30, 1984

At the harvest festival on Wednesday evening at Christ Church, the following articles were presented and afterwards sent to the Lawrence Hospital: 1-2 barrels apples, 2 baskets oranges, 3 of grapes, 2 of cranberries, 1

2 dozen bananas, 1-2 dozen pears, 3 loaves cake, 1 pie, 12 tumblers jelly, 2 bags pop-corn, 2 of beans, 2 of celery, 1 of sweet potatoes, 4 squashes, 1 cabbage, 1-2 basket turnips and potatoes, 5 pounds tea, 1 can soup, 1 of tomatoes, 1 of peaches, 1 jar peaches, 4 packages

She did what dogs do so well: Loved us unconditionally

But she still nourished us. I talked with Blayne by phone twice Sunday, once before and once after. She said Sophie died pretty fast. The doctor was comforting. He told her in a few days she would be glad she had done it.

In the meantime, I think about death and marvel at how we seldom see our pets die by themselves, the way most people die. The day before Sophie died I'd gone to women's breakfast at church, feeling something would happen there that would keep me from feeling sorry for myself that my dog was dying. A friend talked about her uncle who has been in the hospital, off life support 10 days, and still he hadn't died. He couldn't talk, he had been ready to go for a long time. And still, his family waited, wondering how much longer it would take. We don't treat our pets that way. He died Saturday late afternoon, a few hours ahead of Sophie.

Sophie, I am sure, was an angel. She reminded those who knew her to look at the stars and at the flowers. She made us smile, and she of course did that thing dogs do naturally: She loved us unconditionally with joy and with no embarrassment or self-consciousness whatsoever.

Even though we say we never again want to bond with another dog, we know we will because we can't help it.

Soon – and we are counting on this – the pain will subside, and we will smile when we see her photos, swimming, wagging and loving her family. And maybe then we will be able to think of giving into that kind of love once again.

Four names are added to the casualty list as one Andover boy is missing in action, another was wounded in France, another is an internee in Switzerland and a fourth is a prisoner in Germany.

Seal sale has 220 replies on the first day, one seventh of the total number sent out. One man sent "one dollar for seals, one dollar for good luck." The money raised for the sale of Christmas Seals is used throughout the country to fight tuberculosis. This year, with the return of the service men and women the need is greater than ever and the generous response in Andover is most gratifying.

Today's edition of the Townsman marks a new record. It is the largest paper ever published in the 84 year history of the paper with 44 pages of news and announcements by merchants offering holiday giving ideas.

For nearly a century and a half, Abbot Academy has lived up on the hill, ever since Miss Sarah Abbot asked her friend Squire Farrar, "What shall I do with my surplus funds?" to which he promptly replied, "Found an academy in Andover for the education of young women!" And she did. Never in those 142 years of steady growth through early hardship and later success has there been more activity, change and new directions for Abbot than in the past three, under male headmaster Donald Gordon. To cap it off, she is now considering marriage. The betrothal of Abbot and next door neighbor Phillips Academy was announced recently.

William J. Scanlon of Scanlon Hardware is about to undertake a $2.2 million, two-phase project to renovate and expand his Main Street property - the former site of Cole Hardware - to provide new "deluxe office space" in downtown Andover. The first phase of the project, renovating 16,000 square feet of existing space in the two-story Barnard building, may begin next month. The second phase, the addition of a third floor totaling 12,000 square feet, will probably begin next April or May, he added.

WHAT'S UP

Unsung heroes

By Valerie Parker and Nina Sequeira

We, the Andover Youth Council, would like to recognize four people in the community for their hard work in helping the youth of Andover. These people have gone above and beyond the call of duty, and have rarely been thanked. These remarkable people will open everyone's eyes to the wonderful things happening in the town of Andover.

Carol Lentz

Carol Lentz, the computer lab assistant at Andover High School, has been helping students for approximately seven years. Ms. Lentz is known all over the High School for her generosity and patience with kids. She gladly buys bags of candy for her classes, and is always willing to go out of her way to help a student with a problem. Naomi Kelts, a senior at Andover High, says, "She's always here to help us out, and she goes out of her way to do those little things for you."

Jen Brooks, a junior, says, "She's always around to help us with problems and helps us figure out things on the computer. She even gives us candy, when she doesn't have to."

In her spare time, Ms. Lentz reads and attends her daughter's basketball games. When asked how she feels about being recognized, she said, "I feel honored - overwhelmed by it all!" Congratulations, Carol Lentz. Thank you for being such a kind, warm person.

Peg Campbell

Peg Campbell has been interested in community services for a long time. Ms. Campbell, 32 years old and mother of an 8-month-old daughter, is the program coordinator of the Department of Community Services (DCS). She has worked at DCS nine years. She grew up in Andover, and says there are many positive people who want to give back to their community. She is one of them.

Peg Campbell

Ms. Campbell loves working with kids and she says she gets to meet many nice and interesting people of all ages. She also said, "Andover is a great town to work in."

During her spare time, Ms. Campbell enjoys walking, listening to music and painting. Congratulations to Peg Campbell, a wonderful person who has helped the youth of Andover in so many ways. Thank you for all you've done, and keep up the hard work.

Ann Wilde

As we entered the Andover High room of special needs teacher Ann Wilde, we noticed it is like another world. Contrasting with the surrounding dark hallways of AHS, this room is bright, cheerful and full of activity. The kids were busy making Christmas cards, and they were clearly happy that it was a Friday afternoon.

Ms. Wilde, a Boston College graduate, attended Andover High School, taught at Bancroft Elementary for seven years, and has been teaching at AHS 10 years. In her spare time, she enjoys vacations in Maine.

and arts and crafts. Ms. Wilde has always wanted to be a teacher. She said, "Ninety-nine percent of the time I love my job. Every day is a challenge. I get to interact with kids in regular classes. It's fun to be involved with kids at the High School."

Ms. Wilde has the challenging job of helping the students gain self-confidence, enabling them to do things more independently. It is her responsibility to get her students ready for the world, and to get them to take risks and try things on their own. Ms. Wilde feels that the entire school should take part in helping the kids, not just her classroom. This complete learning process would help her students, as well as students throughout Andover High School.

Her students had many good things to say about their teacher. Shahram Sherkat, a junior, said, "I like her. She helps us around the school and with our work." Mike James, a freshman, said, "She's very super and marvelous." Amy Griffin, a senior, said, "She is a nice teacher. She helps us with questions." Guy McManus, a senior, said, "She helps me with my math and is a nice person." Clearly, Ann Wilde is a wonderful, determined person, who is commended for all her hard work.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

THE SPECIAL "K" PLAN

Introduced barely 15 years ago, the 401(K) retirement plan has become the retirement plan of choice of some 210,000 companies nationwide. The plans are available to employees of these companies and allow them to place a certain portion of their wages in an investment program offered by the employer. The wages are also tax-deferred. Employees generally have a choice of investment options that range from guaranteed income plans and mutual fund plans to plans that invest in the company's own stock. The current trend in 401(K) plans is to shift the burden of retirement planning from the employer to the employee. Nowadays, companies tend to "match" their employees' 401(K) contributions less often than they did in the past. However, this trend in no way diminishes the desirability of the 401(K) plan for many employees. To learn more about these plans and how they might fit into your overall retirement plan picture, please give us at Baystate Financial a call today.

If you employer does not offer a 401(K) retirement plan, perhaps you can share the information in today's column with your personnel department. You may also want to consider setting up a personal retirement plan tailored to your needs. BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES offers retirement, individual investments, life and disability insurance, estate planning and education planning. Please call us at 475-9212 to schedule an appointment. We are located here in Andover at 10 Essex Street. We also have an office at 100 N. Washington St. in Boston (617-523-4500). References are available upon request.

HINT: The personal financial phenomenon cumulatively known as the 401(K) plan now claims an estimated $475 billion in assets and 17.5 million actively participating employees.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz
ARE MORTGAGE INSURANCE COMPANIES TIGHTENING UP?

Private mortgage insurance (PMI) protects lenders against customers who cannot pay their mortgages after they have purchased homes. This kind of business has become riskier in recent years. If your down payment is less than 20% of the purchase price, you will usually be required to buy a PMI policy as a condition for a loan approval.

There have been more defaults over the last few years, however, especially in areas where agriculture or oil play a big part in the economy. Adjustable Rate Mortgages and faulty underwriting policies on the part of some lenders have contributed to the losses. PMI is now more expensive, and the standards for issuing policies are tighter. Because each lender has arrangements with only a few companies, it's not really possible for a consumer to shop around for a policy with the most reasonable rates or terms. But you can still buy a home with less than perfect credit, even though the PMI companies are scrutinizing borrowers more closely.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

Youth Council provides a unique way to thank someone special in your life

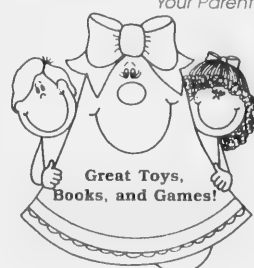

This holiday season, the Andover Youth Council will host a very important event we hope many will be involved in. Just as Carol Lentz, Ann Wilde, Peg Campbell and Cathy Henz have been recognized, everyone deserves to feel appreciated, so this holiday season is the perfect time to recognize those who have made a difference in your life.

Here's how it works: For a donation of $10 or more, the Andover Youth Council will send a special thank-you note, on your behalf, to a person(s) who has done something memorable for you. So if you wish to show your thanks to a co-worker(s), friend(s), or family member(s), do so with an Appreciation Drive donation for the Lazarus House. This is a great way to show somebody you care this holiday.

Happy holidays

Mother and basset pups doing well after rescue

By Joan Brown

For the last month, homeowners on North Street had been wondering about their new neighbor, and obvious transient living in a run-down area, dependent on handouts and growling at everybody she met. The neighbor was rather round, probably because she happened to be pregnant, and rather short, probably because she happened to be a basset hound.

Andover police had tried several times over the past two weeks to catch the stray dog, but she managed to elude police and the animal control officer. Residents became concerned when they discovered that the dog had given birth, particularly with the predicted cold snap over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Anne Boulanger, of 78 North St., called town offices Tuesday, Nov. 22, searching for help after Animal Control Officer Wayne Nader was unable to catch the dog. She spoke with Elena Kothman, who works in the purchasing office. Ms. Kothman was very sympathetic to the plight of the animals, offering the services of her husband, John Kothman, an off-duty emergency medical technician.

Mr. Kothman found the newborn puppies nested deep within a pile of rotting wood, lumber and other debris behind an old auto dealership on North Street. Crawling into the rubble, he came face-to-face with the woodpile's other residents, a family of rats, before extracting the nine pups.

Unable to catch the mother, Mr. Kothman contacted the Mass. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Marc Hamel, humane educator at the Methuen shelter, went to the site Wednesday night, Nov. 23, to help capture the basset.

Mr. Hamel used two of the pups to entice the mother to leave the wood pile. "Mom was growling up a storm," said Mr.

Hamel. He managed to collar the hound and loaded the reunited trio into the MSPCA van for the trip back to the shelter. She immediately began sniffing and licking her little pups, and by the end of the trip, was jumping on Mr. Hamel's lap and licking him.

A local newspaper ran the story Saturday, Nov. 26, leading to the identification of the mother hound. Peaches the dog was lost roughly one month ago when she jumped out of her owner's pick-up truck while riding on River Road near Greater Lawrence Technical School.

Mr. Hamel said Peaches will be returned to her owner, but the pups, a basset hound-Boston terrier mix, are not yet spoken for. They will be available for adoption in approximately five weeks through the MSPCA Methuen shelter.

Mother and babies are all doing very well and are currently living at the Methuen shelter.

"All the credit really goes to Jack, his wife, and all the neighbors," said Mr. Hamel. "It's nice to see the public get involved."

BREAST CARE CENTER

There used to be only two options if you were diagnosed with a breast lump: watch and wait, or have the lump surgically biopsied. Now, you have another choice — a Mammotest stereotactic breast biopsy at Holy Family Hospital's Breast Care Center. The Mammotest is among the most advanced diagnostic equipment available in New England. It is a quick, accurate, relatively pain-free procedure that can be an alternative to surgical biopsy. There's no general anesthesia, no knife or stitches. And the procedure usually takes less than an hour, so you can resume normal activities right away. Ask your doctor about the new Mammotest at Holy Family Hospital's Breast Care Center, or call (508) 686-6492 today for more information. The consequences are big. But the procedure doesn't have to be.

Doug Hamilton leads the parade with bagpipes through AVIS' Indian Ridge Reservation last Saturday. To help celebrate its centennial year, the parade of close to 300 people marched to AVIS' West Parish Meadow Reservation, having gone from the oldest to the youngest of the conservation group's reservations.

AVIS TURNS 100 NATION'S LARGEST CHRISTMAS TREE

The next day, Sunday, members of AVIS continued their celebration of 100 years of conserving land in Andover by driving this antique in the Firefighters Holiday Parade.

Santa Claus was a popular guest at the Brickstone tree lighting. After giving a holiday greeting, Santa officially opened Santa's Village. About 6,000 people attended the event Sunday night.

The fifth annual lighting of the nation's tallest Christmas tree at Brickstone Square, a 94-foot tall Norway Spruce, featured a countdown to a 6 p.m. flip of the switch by WBZ-TV's weekend weatherman, Barry Burbank. Marshalls hosted the event.

Waiting for Santa, Chip Dunn and Jill Dunn, 6, say hello to Rudolph.

Children's author/illustrator Laura Seeley coming back to town

Laura Seeley, children's author and illustrator, will be in town soon. She grew up in Andover and now lives in Atlanta, Ga., where she teaches at the Atlanta College of Art. She was recently named Georgia author of the Year for Juvenile Literature. Ms. Seeley is the author of The Book of Shadowboxes: A Story of the ABC's, as well as The Magical Moonballs and the new McSpot's Hidden

Laura Seeley

Spots.

Ms. Seeley will be at the Andover Bookstore next Saturday, Dec. 10, from 2 to 3 p.m. to sign copies of her books.

***

McSpot's Hidden Spots: A Puppyhood Secret

Laura Seeley has brought to life a Dalmatian puppy, precious in every way except one.

Little McSpot is jealous. So enamored is he of his own looks, so taken is he with his array of spots, that his cuteness is lost in the battle to eliminate all spotted competition from his world. One by one, McSpot gathers the threatening subjects into his puppy jaws and drops them down a hollow tree trunk, thus protecting his self-perceived uniqueness.

In a dream, McSpot learns the foolishness of his ways, and like all of life's well-taught lessons, he realizes, without having to be told, that what is inside is far more important than looks. Though he struggles to remember the lesson, he is, as all of us are, much more likable when he is much less jealous.

McSpot's Hidden Spots: A Puppyhood Secret is a book filled with the unmistakable mark of Laura Seeley's hand. This endearing little fellow whose eyes are filled both with the wonder of life and the conflict of feelings, comes alive and wags himself right into the reader's heart... even more so when McSpot begins to grow in knowledge.

[$16.95 Hardcover, 32 pages, children's ages 4-8]

Superintendent search

Some School Committee members are concerned that the superintendent pool will be shallow this year because other Massachusetts schools are also looking for new superintendents.

"I think Lyle has the capacity to motivate people who are skilled (but) might otherwise not apply," because they are content where they are, said Mr. Barnes. "We get candidates who aren't on traditional lists."

Mr. Kirtman pushed the right buttons, saying that he encourages community involvement and his work "is based on community goals."

Ten residents have sent letters to school officials expressing their interest in being part of the superintendent search committee. The School Committee continues to encourage brief letters detailing a resident's related experience and explaining why he or she wants to be on the search committee.

Mr. Kirtman also said his process cuts down on the superintendent turnover rate because superintendents walk into their new jobs with their eyes open. Andover's last superintendent, Mark McQuillan, left after three years.

If hired, Mr. Kirtman said he will need to know the desires of the School Committee and the community so that he can pass that information along to the prospective school heads. In this way, the new superintendent knows exactly what type of community he or she is entering and, "You're not just doing the search separately from everything else that's going on," he said.

The superintendent turnover rate in Massachusetts is only 2.8 years, according to Mr. Kirtman.

"We're in the ballpark and we would like to change that. But we did have a fairly good process in the search" last time, said Susan Dalton, committee secretary.

Committee members exchanged personal lists of what they consider to be the major issues facing the Andover schools at the Tuesday night workshop, after the consultants left. The committee expects to begin the search process immediately after the winter holidays.

Mr. Kirtman said acquiring the top superintendent candidates will probably require a contract of $80,000 to $90,000 a year. Mark McQuillan was paid $79,200 when he left. Dick Neal, acting superintendent of schools, is being paid $79,000.

Katharine Rodger honored

The International Institute of Greater Lawrence recently gave Andover resident Katharine K. Rodger an award at its 81st annual meeting.

Called the 1994 Immigrant City Award, the International Institute of Greater Lawrence annually gives this award to a person and organization making outstanding contributions to newcomers and Greater Lawrence.

Ms. Rodger has been active in newcomer services for more than 20 years. Earlier in her professional career, she taught Spanish and French at public and private high schools in New York and Minneapolis. She arrived in Lawrence in 1971 and started work as a volunteer at the International Institute where her husband, David, was executive director. She published the city's first Spanish language insert in the Sunday Eagle-Tribune.

Ms. Rodger went to work at Lawrence public schools in 1972 as coordinator of the State Magnet Planning Process and the Educational Equity Program. She was also an advisory specialist to the superintendent. She left the Lawrence school system in 1979 and worked at the Education Development Center in Newton as a curriculum developer.

She returned to Lawrence in 1981 as the International Institute's executive director and helped resettle several hundred Vietnamese and Cuban refugees. She was also co-chairperson of the Governor's Advisory Council. She was recruited to work as director of Northern Essex Community College's Lawrence Education-Employment Project. Today she is director of the college's Lawrence Campus. Many of its students do not speak English as a first language.

Ms. Rodger sits on the board of directors of the Lawrence Minority Business Council, Lawrence General Hospital, regional YMCA and CLASS. She was the International Institute's board secretary from 1990 to 1992.

Committee has two new members

lan) left because Mr. (Richard) Neal (now interim superintendent of schools) became overworked."

Mr. Stapeczynski was not available for comment about these appointments. Committee members said they were pleased with the new members. Mr. Martin attended his first meeting Monday morning and

Ms. Jenkins is expected to be at tonight's meeting.

"Sue certainly knows the school business with what she's done and Gil is well qualified," said Mr. Clarke. "He lives on my street and I know him quite well. He's done a lot of construction work."

Mr. Martin graduated with a degree in electrical engineering from Worcester Polytechnic Institute and is a professional engineer and licensed master electrician in Massachusetts.

He takes the seat left vacant by Jack Ferguson and his term expires on June 30, 1995. Ms. Jenkins will occupy Matt Lennon's former spot and will need to be reappointed June 30, 1996.

auto tips

by
Henry Nassar
Owner

SEEING THE WARNING LIGHT
Because yellow "check engine" warning lights often show up on the instrument panel unaccompanied by any apparent symptoms, drivers may continue to drive their cars and blame the incidents on glitches in the system. The fact is, however, that the matter should be examined by an auto technician at the earliest opportunity. The reason for this rests with the fact that a modern car's onboard computer system receives information about the engine and other parts of the car from an array of sensors. If any of these sensors relay information about an abnormality, the "check engine" light will come on and the car may continue to function as long as the computer can compensate. The point is not to ignore the warning to the point where failure develops. Don't ignore any warning lights that might be illuminated. It is important that you bring your vehicle in for service immediately. Here at NASSAR FORD, we will check out your car or truck for you. We stay on top of all of today's high technology with on-going factory training for all of our service technicians. We also have a large selection of new and previously owned cars and trucks. Please stop by and see us at 320 S. Broadway in Lawrence, or call (508) 688-6904. Our service department is open Monday through Friday from 7:00 AM to 5:30 PM. We would like to take this opportunity to wish all of our readers and their families a safe and happy Hanukkah!

HINT: When the check engine warning light comes on, check the owner's manual for specific instructions.

Conventional Aid

Argosy Cameo®

A New Dimension
In Hearing Care

"You must see it to believe it."

Amore Hearing Aid Consultants

In the forty years that Mrs. Amore has been serving the hearing impaired she has witnessed a revolution, both in hearing aid technology and in the public's attitude toward hearing loss. From the cumbersome aid connected to a battery pack, aids have evolved into tiny devices that fit entirely into the ear canal and are virtually undetectable.

The new Argosy Cameo has prompted great excitement among audiologists. This device is virtually undetectable and may provide the hearing help you need.

Cues that may indicate that you are a candidate for a hearing aid include:

- You find yourself asking people to repeat themselves.
- People around you comment that you play the radio or television too loudly.
- You have difficulty understanding some words.
- You have problems understanding the telephone.
- You miss a word in a sentence and guess what that word may be.

If you find that you have difficulty with any of the above indicators, you may call Mrs. Amore for a diagnostic hearing evaluation. Mrs. Amore is dedicated to educating the public on how to preserve their hearing and deal with its loss.

For your convenience, Amore Hearing Aid Consultants has three offices in the area. The Lawrence office is located at 101 Amesbury Street, Suite 108, telephone: (508) 682-4730. In Haverhill the address is 3 Washington Square, telephone: (508) 372-4851. The Andover office is at 11 Chestnut Street, Telephone: (508) 470-4500.

Victorian Treats

Victorian Treats is an exquisite and unique gift shop with a Victorian theme - a perfect place to browse. Owner Lucy Bernardin has gathered a myriad collection of tempting treats for the palate and eye.

The popularity of Lucy's hand-made English Toffee is what prompted her to open this Victorian boutique. The selection of edibles has grown to include assorted gourmet foods, including tea related items, Mrs. Prindable's biscotti, seven different flavors of Best Friends Cocoa, lemon curd, English preserves, chutney, chocolate covered spoons and teasicles, to mention but a few of the tempting choices. There are premixed scones, Victorian Dream Cake and other mixes.

An ever changing array of unique gifts and collectables fill the boutique. Among the displays are old fashioned stuffed animals, imported and Victorian framable greeting cards, keepsake books, wrapping supplies, English Christmas crackers, antique button Victorian jewelry and Victorian Vogue bath oils. Key chains, letter openers and umbrellas with handles made out of antique flatware can be found.

There is a selection of party and wedding favors. Interesting gift baskets with various themes are also on display.

Victorian Treats is a browsers delight and Lucy Bernardin will be happy to show you new and interesting items that arrive weekly.

Victorian Treats is located at 60 Main Street, Andover. Telephone: 475-5051. On January 4, 1995, they are moving to a new location. The new address will be 68 Park Street, where Betsy Williams' The Proper Season is presently located.

Special Town Meeting

be earned by working in community service jobs at a rate of $5 an hour with a maximum of $500 per household per year. The $15,000 would enable 30 persons to take full advantage of the vouchers.

According to information from the Council on Aging, the program would assist seniors with property tax bills and would increase involvement of senior citizens in local government and services. Chelmsford was the first town in the state to establish this program and now has 22 persons involved in the program in its third year. Lexington has also adopted the program.

"I think it speaks for itself," said Sharon Souza, Council on Aging coordinator. "It's definitely a worthwhile program. It gives seniors an opportunity to contribute to the community."

Article 7: Conservation land

Article 7 asks voter to authorize the purchase of the land and structure at 15 Glenwood Road Extension, also known as 58 Glenwood Road, for $30,000. The money would be taken from the $1 million approved for the Conservation Fund in 1992 for the purpose of open space acquisition.

Purchase of conservation land is not unusual, and is normally undertaken without town meeting approval, but in this case the sellers will remain living there.

William and Isabel Vaughan live in an old house on the land, and will maintain a life estate after the sale.

"The owners are willing to sell their property to the town substantially below the assessed and market value in consideration of the right to use and occupy the premises for their respective lives," according to the petition.

That means the town will buy the property now, but will not take ownership until the Vaughans die or otherwise abandon the property. This is a first for the town, although it's not atypical, Mr. Torrisi said. Private conservation trusts have used this before to acquire property, he said.

The town already owns conservation land on two sides of the Vaughans' property, and the Vaughans' property has frontage on Fosters Pond. A private residence abuts the fourth side of the property.

All the details have not been worked out, such as what would be paid in taxes, who would maintain the home and in what condition it would be maintained. Those and other details will be worked out if voters approve the plan. The deal will then be contingent on the Vaughans, their attorney and the town all reaching an equitable agreement.

The Vaughans approached the town with this idea in hopes that it would help them keep their home, according to Ms. Vaughan.

"We want our independence and we want our privacy," Ms. Vaughan said this week.

She is 73 and legally blind. He is 76 and has Parkinson's disease. The house is "nothing but a chicken coop," she said.

"But we're happy, and that's the main thing," she said.

They have lived there for 28 years and don't want to move.

"We've been married 54 years and he's a sweetheart and we want to be together," she said.

She fears that if they go to a nursing home, he will go to the Veteran's Administration Hospital and she will go elsewhere and they'll be separated.

The Vaughans' two children want them to sell and move in with them, in Lynn or Danvers, but they would lose their privacy and independence and would have grandchildren to deal with, and they'd rather stay in Andover.

They could sell the home for more than the $30,000, since it is assessed at about $80,000, but they believe there may be advantages to selling it to the town in exchange for services the town can provide. If they live long enough, the value of those services, such as Meals on Wheels and the Weebus, might offset the difference in price. That is what will have to be sorted out if the town approves the sale.

"There's a lot we don't understand yet," Ms. Vaughan said.

But they need cash to remain on their own, and that's why they want to sell the property.

"We want to be together as long as we can," she said.

Article 8: Dundee Park right-of-way

Article 8 asks residents to grant a perpetual easement to allow traffic to pass over a piece of town-owned land at the entrance to the Dundee Park office complex off Essex Street.

Dundee Park is located adjacent to the railroad tracks, across Essex Street from the end of Railroad Street.

Want different hours at town offices?

The town of Andover is considering changing business hours for town offices on Bartlet Street.

Officials ask residents to fill in the questionnaire that was sent to homes with the FinCom report regarding Special Town Meeting and to bring it to the meeting Monday or to leave it at town offices or mail it in. The questionnaire asks if evening hours would be helpful.

Although it may appear to be private property, the driveway into the complex, in front of Moor and Mountain outfitters, is town owned. The five buildings at the rear of the property are under agreement for purchase by Pentucket Medical Group of Haverhill and North Andover, which plans to establish medical offices on the site. Although the area of the proposed easement has been used as an entrance and exit to the park for 40 years, the easement will confirm the right to use it and is needed for the deal with Pentucket.

Article 8 is a private petition submitted by Michael Gerstein, an attorney for Pentucket.

Article 9: South School easement

Article 9 asks residents to grant another easement, this one to allow Massachusetts Electric Co. to install poles and lines, part of the South School expansion project, on a piece of town land off Woburn Street.

The services would run along the edge of the school's property from Woburn Street to the school.

Raiders run over Colts in Junior League football

The Indian Ridge Raiders ran over the Colts for a 41-26 victory in the Andover Junior Football League's championship recently at Doherty field.

The Colts scored twice in the first quarter and led 13-0. The Raiders made it 13-6 in the second quarter. The turning point came when the offensive unit of the Raiders "B" team took the field at the beginning of the third quarter. The attack was led by the strong running of Marc Shaughnessy who raced for a 60-yard gain, scored two touchdowns and contributed a 28-point scoring binge.

Nick Lunger, Jason Crab, Dave Nichols, Matt Driesen and Erik Shaughnessy (Marc's brother), also scored for the Raiders.

Tom Marsella is head coach of the Raiders. Trophies were awarded at the annual Junior Football League banquet in November.

Sean Ryan of Andover didn't wait long to make his presence felt on the St. Anselm College men's varsity basketball team.

The former Andover High All-Scholastic, named the Eastern Mass. Division I Player-of-the-Year in 1991-92, was voted to the Northeast-10 Conference Weekly Honor Roll last week as the Hawks split their first two games of the 1994-95 season before more than 2,000 fans at their own fifth annual Days Inn Classic.

The junior guard, who transferred back to the area after two seasons playing for NCAA Division I school Monmouth College in New Jersey, averaged 16 points, four assists and 3.5 steals in the two games.

He poured through a high of 26 points against non-league opponent Franklin Pierce, hitting 9-of-11 field goal attempts including 6-of-7 long-range three-pointers in an 89-80 championship game loss.

The Hawks also routed No. 5-ranked Division III power New Hampshire College 83-57 in the semifinal round of the tournament.

St. Anselm is in Manchester, N.H., and Ryan will be making several local appearances when the Hawks face conference rival Merrimack College at the S. Peter Volpe Complex in North Andover this winter.

Phillips Academy senior cross country standout Jennifer Long qualified to compete against the best high school cross country runners at the 16th annual Foot Locker Northeast Regional Cross Country Championship Meet.

The New England Prep School champ was scheduled to face harriers from Connecticut, Delaware, District of Columbia, Maine, Maryland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Massachusetts.

The 5,000 meter race (3.1 miles) takes place at Van Cortlandt Park in Bronx, New York.

Three other regional races were also to be held, with the top eight finishers in each of the seeded races advancing to the National Finals in San Diego on Dec. 10.

Long recently capped her Phillips Academy cross country career by winning the New England Class A Prep School championship race.

Long, a resident of Chelmsford and captain of the PA squad, finished the 3.1 mile course at Hotchkiss School in Lakeville, Conn., in 20:25.

Runner-up Ariana Kelly of Deerfield Academy was a distant second in 21:02.

Long's strong individual performance enabled two-time defending team champ Phillips Andover to place third behind archrival Phillips Exeter and Deerfield.

Who is that number 10 out there? Is it a freshman? Maybe a transfer? No. It's Jen Recesso.

If ever off-season training has made a difference in a player, Recesso, a senior field hockey tri-captain, is a glowing example.

She hardly looks the same or plays the same.

The Andover senior recently scored in three straight matches and recorded a "hat trick" (three goals) against Sweet Briar College. Her efforts have earned her Lynchburg College Athlete of the Week honors for the Sept. 26-Oct. 5.

"Jen trained hard, on her own, all summer," said Lynchburg College coach Enza Steele, whose Hornets are 12-2-2. "I'm just amazed at the difference in her play from last year. She's so much faster, stronger and quicker, and she's more aggressive."

Recesso is the team's third leading scorer with 12 goals and two assists. She worked two separate lifeguard jobs over the summer.

"My parents bought me a membership at a health place that had everything," said Recesso, who scored six goals as a junior. "I'd ride my bike to work (lifeguard at Phillips Academy), swim laps when we weren't too busy, ride my bike to another job at lunch, ride home after work (three miles), run down to work out at the club (two miles), work out for two hours and hustle home."

What a routine!

Did she notice any difference in pre-season workouts? "I wasn't sore in pre-season," she laughed.

Recesso is one standout leader on this year's team, which has high hopes.

The fact that the 1981 Lynchburg squad was national runner-up in field hockey made a distinct impression on Recesso when she was trying to decide on a college.

"All my sisters had played Division I and I realized Lynchburg College was just as skilled," she explained. "I wanted a small school, down South. I looked at others (New Hampshire, Holy Cross, UConn, Roanoke), but the moment I walked on the campus here at LC, I knew this was the one for me."

Coach Steele has been impressed with Recesso's leadership.

"She's getting the team pumped," said Steele, who now has a 223-86-11 career record. "She's doing a good job as captain."

"I want to come across to the team as someone they can come to," said Recesso. "I had some problems when I was a freshman and I appreciated the guidance I got."

"I want to look back on my college years in field hockey in a favorable light. I would love for us to achieve nationals. Then my whole family could come see us play in New Jersey or wherever it's held."

There's one more area Recesso sees as essential.

"It really helps this team to have fan support," she stressed. "This team has confidence. We know we are going to do well."

Recesso is a 1991 graduate of Andover High School.

Andover High Golden Warrior Eric Thompson, #12, searches downfield for an open receiver before making a pass during the Thanksgiving Day game against Central Catholic at Lovely Field. The Warriors lost the game, 28-14.

For 35 minutes it was anyone's game

By Rick Harrison

For 35 minutes it was anyone's game.

The Andover and Central Catholic football teams had battled one another on even terms as they headed to the wire in last Thursday's annual season-ending Thanksgiving Day clash.

The archrivals had given the estimated 2,500 fans at Lovely Field, who braved sub-freezing temperatures, a competitive and entertaining prelude to their turkey dinner.

Sparked by a virtuoso performance from sophomore quarterback Brian Tisbert on offense, and an emotional defensive effort keyed by the play of captain Pete Daniels, captain Steve Muench, Mike Shaughnessy and Dana McCann, the Golden Warriors were locked in a 14-14 tie with favored Central midway through the fourth quarter.

The final five minutes belonged to the visiting Red Raiders, however, as they scored the go-ahead and insurance touchdowns to seal a hard-fought 28-14 triumph.

Central's late outburst marked the third time in the final four games Andover was victimized by an opposing team at crunch time.

Head Coach Dick Collins' Golden Warriors weathered a late 21-point rally by Wilmington to register a 27-23 victory, but weren't as fortunate against Billerica when the Indians erupted for 20 points in the closing 5:43 to snap a 7-7 tie.

Last Thursday's was a highly-respectable closing performance by Andover, one of the younger teams in the Merrimack Valley Conference and one that could make a run for the league championship in 1995.

This year's squad was forced to settle for a final record of 5-5-0, including five wins in the first seven games prior to consecutive losses against MVC champ Chelmsford (8-1-1 overall record), reigning Eastern Mass. Division 2-A Super Bowl champ Billerica, and a Central team that was the consensus pre-season pick to capture it all.

Central finished at 6-3-1 overall (6-2-1 league) and snuck into third place in the MVC with the victory over AHS.

The loss extended the Golden Warriors' recent frustration against Central Catholic, which has now beaten Andover four straight, seven of the last eight, and is 10-3 against the locals since 1981.

Jekyll and Hyde

The Thanksgiving Day finale was a game of contrasting halves.

Andover dominated the first two quarters everywhere but on the scoreboard, as the Golden Warriors needed a four-yard touchdown pass from Tisbert to captain Eric Thompson on the final play of the second period to hit the break locked in a 7-7 tie.

However, during the first 20 minutes AHS had significant advantages in first downs (6-3), yards rushing (103-27), net yards from scrimmage (125-74), scrimmage plays (29-17) and time of possession (12:37 to 7:23).

Things swung dramatically in Central's favor in the second half, however, as CCHS played ball control and turned the tables with notable edges in first downs (8-3), yards rushing (124-24), net yards from scrimmage (175-77), scrimmage plays (30-15), time of possession (14:58 to 5:02) and points scored (21-7).

For the game, the Red Raiders were tops in first downs (11-9), yards rushing (151-127), yards passing (98-75), total yards from scrimmage (249-202), scrimmage plays (47-44) and time of possession (22:21 to 17:39).

The contest was turnover free until the final quarter, when Tisbert intercepted a pass and Andover lost a fumble that led to the final Central touchdown.

Individual standouts

Tisbert was Andover's top ball carrier under the less-than-ideal conditions, as the frigid weather and a light snow cover from Wednesday afternoon flurries left the field slick in spots.

Tisbert, the only sophomore in the 10-team league to be named Merrimack Valley All-Conference (second team), rushed for 81 yards in eight carries. He also completed 5-of-10 passes for 66 yards, including his fourth TD toss of the season, and would have produced even better numbers had two of his on-the-money aeriels not been dropped by wide-open, frozen-fingered receivers.

Tisbert rounded off his morning by splitting the uprights with his 16th and 17th PAT kicks (17-for-19 overall), and averaging a solid 35.3 yards for three punts.

Defensively, from his safety post, Tisbert participated in seven tackles and produced the game's lone interception.

Tailback-defensive back Eric Thompson did not get the 192 yards needed to join the elite 1,000-yard rushing club, but he did pick up 54 yards in 12 carries to complete the campaign with 862 yards.

Had he not been slowed by ankle problems early in the season, Thompson most likely would have achieved the rushing milestone.

Thompson, who also contributed a solid defensive effort (eight tackles, three unassisted), scored his team-high eighth touchdown (48 points) and snagged his team-high second TD pass. He threw two option passes, one of which connected for nine yards to Jamaal Leach on the final play of the game.

Dana McCann blocked well and scored his fifth touchdown of the season, while senior split end Cris Brown capped his high school football career with a pair of pass receptions (26 and 18 yards) that Jerry Rice would be proud to call his own.

Senior linebacker Pete Daniels had 11 tackles, eight of them primary stops, while Steve Muench and Dana McCann added nine tackles each, Scott Savage seven and junior defensive end Mike Shaughnessy nailed Central's Matt Cassano twice for the Golden Warriors' two QB sacks (13- and six-yard losses).

Early threat

The Golden Warriors wasted no time showing Central a Thanksgiving victory would not come easily.

The Red Raiders won the opening toss, but deferred the choice and kicked off to Andover.

With Tisbert gaining 29 and 12 yards on a pair of quarterback keepers, and short bursts added by Thompson, McCann and senior halfback Dana DiFiore, the home team marched from its own 28 yard line to the Central 17 in 11 plays.

But the Red Raiders defense, anchored by 6-foot 3-inch, 225-pound lineman Ned Finneran of Andover, stiffened at this point and forced Andover to surrender on downs.

DiFiore and McCann were stopped on successive runs, a Tisbert third-down pass fell incomplete, and CCHS bruising two-way back Mike Shannon broke through to throw Tisbert for a nine-yard loss on fourth down.

The Red Raiders took over at their own 26 and drove 74 yards in eight plays for the game's first touchdown.

Eric Larnard carried twice for 21 yards, Cassano completed a key 11-yard pass to junior tight end Jason Stanley on a third-and-8 play, and Shannon bulled for five yards.

Cassano, who completed 6-of-8 aeri-als for 98 yards, lofted a 37-yard toss to favorite target Nick Krippendorf (five TD catches) who made the catch while cutting to the middle at the AHS six.

Shannon plowed five yards to the one, and then knifed across for the first of his two touchdowns.

Krippendorf, who finished the season with 25 PAT kicks, split the uprights with the first of his four conversions to make it 7-0 with 12 seconds left in the first quarter.

Most of the second period was dominated by the rival defenses, neither team able to produce a first down and exchanging four punts.

Impressive drive

Late in the half, after a short 20-yard kick into the wind by Krippendorf, Andover drove 44 yards in eight plays to tie the score.

A six-yard Tisbert-to-McCann pass was followed by Thompson runs of three and six yards.

Tisbert then faded to throw, found all receivers covered, and improvised an 18-yard scramble to the right side.

An illegal procedure penalty backtracked the ball to the Central 16, but Tisbert gained two on a tuck-and-go, Thompson scampered up the middle for 10 yards, and as time ran out Tisbert hit Thompson with a four-yard touchdown pass in the right front corner of the end zone.

On Tisbert's conversion kick, holder Derek DeAngelis did a nice job controlling the snap and getting it down on the turf.

Central Catholic regained the lead with a methodical 13-play, 59-yard sustained march to open the second half.

Cassano launched the drive by sandwicheing 14- and eight-yard pass completions to Cesar Abad around a six-yard sack by Mike Shaughnessy.

Eric Larnard converted a key fourth-and-two with a three-yard gain to the AHS 30, but a Cassano bomb to Krippendorf was broken up in the end zone by Tisbert and Thompson.

Larnard ran for three, Cassano scrambled nine yards, and the 222-pound Shannon rumbled 15 yards to the Golden Warriors' three.

After an illegal motion penalty momentarily stalled Central, Larnard gained seven yards before romping untouched for his 10th TD of the season.

Krippendorf added the kick, and 7:23 into the third quarter Andover had yet to run a second-half play and found itself trailing 14-7.

Warriors retaliate

The locals took Krippendorff's kickoff and responded with an eight-play, 80-yard drive for their final 1994 touchdown.

Thompson raced 14 yards on first down, and the officials added 15 more by slapping CCHS with a personal foul penalty for a late hit.

Short runs by the two Danas, DiFiore and McCann, brought the ball across the 50 and into Red Raider territory.

Tisbert then fired a 26-yard over-the-middle bullet to sure-handed Cris Brown, and two plays later the same pair launched the fourth quarter with a similar 18-yard connection that carried to the Central three.

Thompson bucked the line for one yard, and McCann plowed into the end zone from the two on the next play.

Tisbert booted the conversion to tie the game a second time, 14-14, at 1:14 of the final period.

Three plays after the kickoff, with a first down at the Andover 43, Cassano overthrew his intended receiver and Tisbert intercepted at the AHS 15 while roaming center field.

Moments later AHS was faced with a major decision, after a 10-yard run by Tisbert left the Golden Warriors with fourth-and-inches at their 32.

Andover elected to punt, with 5:28 to play, and Tisbert unloaded a fine 35-yard kick that rolled dead (no return) at the Central 33.

The Red Raiders offense drew on its reserve tanks, pounding 67 yards in six plays for the winning touchdown.

Larnard carried three times in the quick drive for 14 yards, but Shannon was the horse with a powerful 34-yard jaunt, an 11-yard run and an eight-yard burst up the chute to cap the march with 2:50 left.

The touchdown was the 14th of the season for Shannon, who finished with 84 points and over 700 yards rushing.

Krippendorff's conversion made it 21-14, but the Golden Warriors still had time for a touchdown, two-point conversion and what would have been a monster come-from-behind win.

Two Andover residents who attend Pingree School in Hamilton were recognized recently for their efforts on sports teams.

John Shea sees gridiron action at SMU

By Rick Harrison

John Shea of Andover, a sophomore at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, recently completed his second year with the SMU varsity football team.

SMU plays big-time NCAA Division I-A football.

The former Governor Dummer Academy football and baseball All-Star saw his first game action of 1994 against UCLA at the Rose Bowl Stadium in Pasadena, Calif.

John Shea

Shea was an upback (blocker) on the kickoff return teams.

He later received similar special teams minutes against New Mexico, and then started on special teams versus Rice and Texas Christian University (TCU).

In the season finale on Nov. 12,

Shea landed a space in the official National Collegiate Athletic Association record book by returning a kickoff eight yards for the Mustangs.

In 1993, as a freshman, Shea joined the team as a walk-on (non-scholarship player) and worked as a fullback on the scout team in practice and also traveled to away games.

The 6-foot 1-inch, 225-pounder carried the ball three times as a running back during the intra-squad game at the close of spring practice last April, gaining 12 yards.

At Governor Dummer in Byfield, Shea was the team captain and an Independent School League (ISL) first-team All-Star in 1992 when he rushed for 720 yards on 82 carries (8.8 average).

John ripped off one 80-yard run from scrimmage, caught 15 passes for 120 yards (840 all-purpose yards), and scored 11 touchdowns (eight rushing and three receiving) for 66 points.

Shea was also a middle linebacker on defense at GDA, participating in 60 tackles as a senior.

He was chosen to play in the annual Massachusetts Shriners' All-Star Game in the summer of 1992.

Governor Dummer was 22-2 overall

SMU head coach Tom Rossley has indicated that Shea is part of the team's future as a power running back.

during his three years as a varsity letterwinner, and his junior year GDA won the New England Class B Prep School championship.

He was a career .300 hitter and three-year letter winner in baseball.

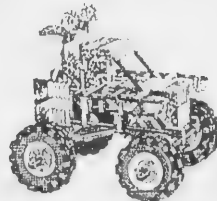

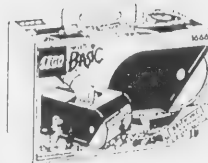

SMU head coach Tom Rossley has indicated that Shea is part of the team's future as a power running back.

The Mustangs' other two big backs are graduating seniors, which leaves the door ajar for the 20-year-old Shea, who has exhibited admirable patience and dedication to the program.

John is the youngest son of Andrew and Shirley Shea, 9 Orchard St.

The elder Shea was a standout football player at Lawrence High and Harvard University, while older brother Andy was a three-sport standout at Phillips Academy and played football at Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa.

Dick and Rick Hoyt, in wheelchair, lead more than 6,000 runners at the start of this year's Feaster Five 5k and 5-mile road race Thanksgiving morning. The race started in Shawsheen Square and ended back at Brickstone Square on York Street.

Thanksgiving Feaster Five Road Race draws 7,000

By Don Staruk

For the second year in a row, the story was the frigid weather coupled with the massive turnout. Despite temperatures near 20 degrees at the start of the seventh annual Feaster Five Road Race Thanksgiving morning, almost 7,000 runners and walkers, including entire families, braved the bitter cold.

And to make it all the more worthwhile, it was estimated that more than $20,000 was raised for the Lazarus House homeless shelter.

The turnout of 6,696 participants makes the Feaster Five the largest 5-mile road race in New England and one of the largest in the United States.

"This event has now become a family tradition," said Dave McGillivray, race director. "I'm amazed at how the applications come in. Most races, you receive one application at a time. With this race, that is the exception as there is something for the whole family at the Feaster Five. There are so many inspirational human interest stories. This event will continue to experience incredible growth."

And then there was the race itself.

Yiannelis, Senatore take 5-miler

George Yiannelis, 23, of Bradford was the first finisher in the 8-kilometer

'It was a fast race. We were flying around the 3- and 4-mile marks.'

Christopher Bianchi, second place finisher

(5-mile) race in a time of 24:18, out kicking Christopher Bianchi, 26, of Hopdale by four seconds (24:22), and Ethan Crain, 22, of Boston by 10 seconds (24:28).

"It was a fast race. We were flying around the 3- and 4-mile marks," Bianchi said. "I made a little move at 4 miles, but I guess it didn't work out. But I got second."

Bianchi said he and the other top finishers were together with a quarter mile to go and had to kick it out for the finish.

Rounding out the top five were Jimmy Fallon, 34, of Newton (24:33), and Larry Sayers, 35, of North Walpole, N.H., (24:34). Overall, the top seven male finishers broke 25 minutes.

With 1984 Olympic gold medalist Joan Benoit Samuelson, 37, of Freeport, Maine, entered, most might have assumed the women's race would be for second place. However, having run 2:37 in the Chicago Marathon three weeks earlier, which qualified her for the 1996 Olympic Trials, Samuelson finished second behind Lisa Senatore, 31, of Medfield.

Senatore's time was 28:04, 21 seconds ahead of Samuelson, who finished in 28:25.

"I felt a little tight," Samuelson said after the race.

Third place went to Kara Molloy, 23, of Westford (28:41), with Alice Callahan, 33, of Belmont (29:44) and Thayer Plante, 30, of Cambridge (29:46), finishing fourth and fifth.

Molloy and Senatore were together for about two miles, going through downtown Andover, with Samuelson only a few yards behind.

"Then (Samuelson) came up on us and Lisa and Joan went out from there," Molloy said.

"I pulled away at about 3½ miles. That was my plan," Senatore said. "I started to pull away and I didn't know if she was coming or not."

It wasn't until Senatore made the turn at York Street that her coach told her she had a big lead.

Senatore said this was the first time she ran the Feaster competitively.

"It was great," she said. "I liked the course much better this year. They just do a great job running it."

Masters

In the master's division, four-time Boston Marathon winner Bill Rodgers, 46, of Sherborn, was outkicked by his long-time friend Andy Palmer, who recently turned 40. Palmer, who now lives in Tallahassee, Fla., captured the master's laurel wreath with a winning time of 25:49, beating Rodgers by one second. Rodgers' second-place time of 25:50 was one second faster than his winning time last year.

"I got beat in," Rodgers said after the race. "We ran neck and neck the whole way and coming up the hill (York Street) I pulled ahead of him a little bit. I was trying to psych him out, but he knows me too well."

Palmer pulled ahead of Rodgers only a few yards before the finish line.

"It was nice. People were yelling for us the whole way," Rodgers said. "I'd love to come back. We have a blast."

Rodgers said this was his last race for 1994.

"I feel good, except I hated to lose," he said.

Andy Palmer, of Tallahassee, Fla., left, pulled in front of four-time Boston Marathon winner Bill Rodgers at the finish of the five-mile race. Rodgers said he tried to pull away from Palmer coming up York Street, but couldn't. The pair were first and second masters at 25:49 and 25:50.

Dave McGillivray, race director, surveys the crowd at the starting line as Tracie Gardner of the Merrimack Valley Striders running club sings the National Anthem prior to the race. Even with 2,000 more runners than last year, this year's race was only a few minutes late getting started and there were no major problems reported.

For those near the back, it was a slow start to the race on North Main Street.

Lynch, Murphy take 5k

More than 1,700 runners and walkers participated in the 5-kilometer (3.1-mile) race, almost double the number that last year.

Tommy Lynch, 26, of Charlestown won by almost one full minute, in 15:58,

'I feel good, except I hated to lose.'

Bill Rodgers,
second master

over Cory Spencer, 19, of Portsmouth, N.H., who finished in 16:55. Lowell Ladd, 19, of Lexington finished third in 17:22.

For the women, Mary Donahue, 28, of Lowell won easily in 19:05. Lynn Boksanske, 19, of Kingston, N.H., finished second for the second year in a row (19:32), and Julie Pendleton, 20, of Salem, N.H., who won last year's 5k race, finished third (20:13).

Andover finishers

David Doyle, 25, was the first Andover resident across the line in the 5-miler in 29:29. Terri Anne McGettrick was the first woman in 31:27.

Doyle ran the 800 meter and half mile for the AHS track team and now runs with the Merrimack Valley Striders. McGettrick also runs with the Striders.

Ben Pease, 20, was the first 5k finisher from Andover in a time of 17:52. Jennifer Batts, 19, was the first woman 5k finisher from Andover in a time of 22:57.

Buzz Stapeczynski, town manager, improved his time in the 5-miler by more than two minutes from last year, finishing in 35:46. But that wasn't quite good enough to beat Townsmen reporter Don Staruk (33:15).

"I hit my target time wise," Mr.

Stapeczynski said immediately after the race. "Next year..."

[Editor's note: Yeah. Right. B-bye.]

Daisy Vanderlinde of North Andover, #4635, was enjoying the warm-up aerobics prior to the road race Thanksgiving morning. Sub-freezing temperatures and a wind out of the north encouraged many to take part in the pre-race aerobics, which were run by The Oxygen Exchange in Boxford.

Andover Squirt A hockey team tied the reigning first-place Revere team 4-4 in a fiercely fought 12-penalty contest to bring its season record to 7-3-1.

Revere, undefeated in 10 matches this season, controlled play throughout the first two periods with 14 shots on goal to Andover's seven, despite aggressive defense by Patrick Linneman, Doug Johnson and Tim LeGrow. Goalie Chris Schwartz saved a dozen attempts, yet Revere managed to score a goal in each period and led 2-0.

Just 27 seconds into the third period, Jonathan Swift passed to Dave McGrath, who relayed the puck across the goal mouth to Justin Leider, who redirected it into the open side of the net to score. Less than a minute later, Danny Berman scored on a rebound set up by M.C. Corey's shot on net. The goalie dropped the puck near the crease and Zander Davis grabbed it to set up the goal. The game was now tied 2-2. Seconds later, a similar rebound goal was scored. This time, Corey was assisted by Berman with both teams shorthanded.

Mike Lanciani, Johnny Stearns and Mike Corey attempted to widen the lead with good offense and several shots on goal. Then, Revere tied the score and with just 1:56 on the clock, scored again. Twelve seconds later, Corey took a shot on the Revere goalie and Tucker Prudden scored on the rebound at 1:44. Goalie Schwartz made a game-save on a wrap-around attempt with seconds to go for the 4-4 tie.
